

CALL FOR PAPERS

I International Conference Language, Literature, Wine and Territory Wine, teach me all my history

Logroño, Universidad de La Rioja. Dal 14 al 16 di novembre 2018

Both Universidad de La Rioja (Logroño, Spain) and Università del Piemonte Orientale (Vercelli, Italia) announce the I International Conference on Language, Literature, Wine and Territory: «Wine, teach me all my history».

This Conference has the ambition to bring together recognized scholars, both from Spanish and foreign universities, and to encourage young people to present work on specific research lines.

Furthermore, the I International Conference on Language, Literature, Wine and Territory: «Wine, teach me all my history» aims to promote collaboration between the University and other institutions of the respective wine-growing regions that share the interest in Language and Literature.

Cervantes said, through the mouth of his most famous character «—Drink moderately, for drunkenness neither keeps a secret, nor observes a promise» (DQ, II-XLIII).

With this sentence we invite you to present your researches whose theme revolves about wine and its culture.

Research major guidelines:

1. Language and Discourse about Wine
2. The Culture of Wine in Literature and History
3. Technical Innovations in Vine Cultivation Methods and Winemaking Process
4. Territory, Society, Economy and Wine Tourism
